

David Wright

David Wright is the keyboard player and composer of electronic, instrumental music who founded the AD Music label in 1989 and who co-founded the electronic/prog rock band Code Indigo and the electronic music duo Callisto. His solo music is melodic, atmospheric and emotive with emphasis on mood and feel. His gently rhythmic style combines piano, synths and multi layered sounds and sometimes incorporate electric and acoustic guitars, violin, percussion, samples and male & female voice textures.

His large catalogue of work is varied, covering "Romanticism", "Space Music", "Sequenced Electronic" and "World", and his music is laced with classical, rock, jazz and cultural influences. During a 20 years musical journey, David has developed his own unique sound and style, that for reference purposes, can be likened to Steve Roach, Kitaro, Vangelis, Tangerine Dream, Jean Michel Jarre and Mike Oldfield.

David has developed his own unique sound and style and established a strong reputation as a solo recording artist and a live performer, appearing with, amongst others, Code Indigo, Andy Pickford, Bekki Williams, Jonn Serrie and Klaus Schulze. His music is regularly featured on radio playlists worldwide and has featured on Sky, British TV and numerous international CD & DVD compilations. His early music was published by POEM Musiklag but his output since 1995 has been published by Notting Hill Music.
